Return on Investment

"LVEDC member companies understand that their business is directly affected by the economic health of the county."

Investor Invitation

The Lebanon Valley has a lot to offer your business, and so does the Economic Development Corporation. This is why, many community leaders have chosen to provide financial support to the LVEDC. As the lead, economic development organization, the LVEDC has been serving the county since 1957. They have been a conduit for business retention, expansion and recruitment, workforce development, low interest financing and general business services.

Important Reasons to Join:

- ◆ Investment into the economic future
- ◆ Connection to resources to grow business; workforce, financing and real estate development
- ◆ Inclusion in annual business support directory & online showcasing
- ◆ Connection to business referrals
- ◆ Exclusive invitations to events
- ◆ Quarterly review of economic conditions in Lebanon Valley

"Eastern Land & Resources Company sees the value of supporting the Organization at the Diamond level. The services that the LVEDC provides are integral to improving the economic vitality of the region."

*Tom Zagami, Counsel
Eastern Land Resources*

Investor Support

Investors support the daily work of stimulating the local economy. Dues also support an ambitious agenda to promote, influence and advance the economic vitality of Lebanon County. Strategically addressing key challenges and opportunities such as business retention & expansion, workforce development and land use, are part of that agenda.

Investors determine which level of membership is appropriate based on their size, and overall community engagement.

"Jonestown Bank & Trust Co. has been actively involved in the Lebanon Valley since 1873. As the only community bank headquartered in Lebanon County, we play a vital role in improving the financial lives of businesses, organizations, individuals, and families in the Lebanon Valley. JBT works closely with the LVEDC and I have found them to be a true advocate for the Lebanon Valley, with the resources and expertise to benefit businesses of all sizes." Troy A. Peters, President & CEO, JBT
